elissa keogh	Australia	2017-12-15	The Anglesea bike park offers something so rare and wonderful to us city folk. Watching our daughters' confidence grow on each visit has been incredible. Where else can kids ride so freely and learn that taking a calculated risk can lead to so much joy? The benefits this park offers the Surf Coast Community, young and old, are simple to see.

Avalon Gonzalez	Australia	2017-12-17	I love riding around my area and I would be completely shocked and sickened if the places I ride at were taken away, I think that nobody should have to deal with that.
Glenn Bethune	Australia	2017-12-17	To many public facilities are being taken away from the kids, look after the future, look after the kids growing up now so they will have a great and fun childhood, for minimal cost these facilities can be kept, Mum & Dads will have a great spot to take their kids to teach them to ride, give the kids confidence and skill so when they are riding elsewhere they can do it safely, if the councils continue to remove facilities the only place kids will be able to ride is out in the public domain like roads & footpaths, we all know how that doesn't work very well,

Andrew Laird	Melbourne, Australia	2017-12-17	Alcoa polluted our air for decades and made huge profits out of the extraction of coal (for which it paid a pittance) at Anglesea. The least it can do is gift the bike park to the community!

Robert Storey	Melbourne, Australia	2017-12-17	I love the bike park!
tracey langham	anglesea, Australia	2017-12-17	This is a vital, healthy community space. If the bike park disappears, the well-being of all stakeholders diminishes. So will Alcoa allow developers to mastermind a tourism facility that reduces community activity space?

John Englart	Fawkner, Australia	2017-12-18	Gifting the bike park land to Council as a public park and recreation reserve should be part of ALCOA's site remediation and commitment to the local community that has suffered their mine and power station for decades at the expense of local population health.
Nathan Wharton	Australia	2017-12-18	We need places like this! Alcoa should be supporting the community they work in

Jason Timlock	Ashgrove, Australia	2017-12-18	After such a cosy ride from the Victorian government it could be time for Alcoa to give a bit back
Scott Timlock	Melbourne, Australia	2017-12-18	It's such a great resource for kids and youth on the surf coast and locals in particular. Such a great healthy outdoor environment needs to be preserved. As part of Alcoa's remediation process I think it's the least they could do as an act of good faith. The land they have utilised at the mine will never be the same even with the best remediation, so if Alcoa won't donate the land, it should be purchased by council.

Trinette McKoy	Australia	2018-02-01	I don't want to see such a great family orientated space be used for development. They have an opportunity to do the right thing here....
Elise De Smet	Australia	2018-02-02	My son (only 9) has been riding here every holidays and loves it. It gets him and other kids away from screen time and keeps them active. Don't take away such a fabulous recreational facility from our small town. We barely have enough facilities for that age group as it is. - or for any age group.
Graham Rankin	Australia	2018-02-02	I'm signing because outdoor activities such as this are a preventative ingredient to great health and wellbeing. Particularly for young people who will benefit in so many ways.

Darren Graham	Lal Lal, Australia	2018-02-02	Kids, & adults too, need healthy recreational spaces. Not more overpriced development.
Anthony Gleeson	Australia	2018-02-02	If this biketrack goes & an alternative not found, 10's of K's of cyclists will be exposed to Great Ocean Road traffic - not a good combo. C'mon Alcoa - surely u have responsibility to provide a 'safe' alternative for cyclists - this just isn't good enough.
Tony Cotter	Australia	2018-02-02	This park is a great asset, really important in teaching kids the aspects of offroad bike safety - it would be a shame to lose it for more houses
Julie Dingle	Melbourne, Australia	2018-02-02	Leave it for the community.
Victoria Fysh	Melbourne, Victoria, Australia	2018-02-02	Bike-riding is an awesome, family friendly activity. We should be doing everything we can to support it, not shutting down bike parks!!!
Dianne O'Dwyer	Australia	2018-02-02	Children need outdoor activity spaces. Alcoa had lots of tax payer subsidies. Give something back.
Sue Rodgers	GEELONG, Australia	2018-02-02	Alcoa took so much from the site, it is time to give something back.
Bronwyn Plarre	Brunswick West, Australia	2018-02-02	It is so important, at this time, to encourage bicycle transport, as well as to wrest land for community use.

Bern Blake	Aireys Inlet, Australia	2018-02-02	The park is an integral part of life in Anglesea and the coast. It is a social space perfectly located across from the school and has been built with love and care by the community over years. I must have been there with my kids 1000 times or more. Losing it would be a tragedy.

Andy Robertson	Australia	2018-02-02	I can't imagine the Surfcoast Shire would end this recreational site, that so many people over the years have volunteered their time and community spirit in creating. It's brought together and continues to provide a healthy outdoor space for all ages to get together and have fun, challenge their physical and mental abilities and meet other locals and visitors to the coast. The Shire needs to maintain and promote more outdoor social opportunities for recreation, ones that positively impact the communities health.

Jacques Theron	Melbourne, Australia	2018-02-03	One of the best day my son (5 at the time) had one of the best days in his life was at this bike park. This is almost a year ago and he still speaks of it. This is a magnificent piece of land. Rather put up some facilities and a small café and this will generate income and create jobs in the community. The customers are already there, it is a no-brainer.
Maria Neyenhuis	Australia	2018-02-03	I believe it's a matter of great importance for kids to have somewhere to ride in safety and keep them outdoors promoting better health than on social media with Ipads etc. It's a public health concern we should all be backing.
